

The work of FISH

www.fish-forum.info

The Work of FISH

Is mainly done through the activities of the Core Members who:

- Have twice yearly face-to-face meetings
- Maintain existing standards

- Make existing standards available
- Develop new standards
- Map existing standards

- Lead discussion, debate and peer review
- Co-ordinate communication and promotion of standards
- Represent FISH

Images supplied courtesy of: ADS, English Heritage, Museum of London and The National Trust. This poster was funded by the kind donations of the following organisations:

The Forum on Information Standards in Heritage

Society's understanding of the historic environment, and its access to knowledge of the past, is enhanced when standards for the recording of heritage information are employed. Such standards facilitate easy retrieval and integration of the information allowing research, appreciation and understanding of the historic environment. FISH exists to meet this need.

Objectives

To co-ordinate, develop, maintain and promote standards for the recording of heritage information.

Aims

To enable information created within the heritage sector to be gathered into a retrievable, reusable and interoperable form. To produce, review, maintain and update data content standards, metadata standards, indexing and terminology standards for the heritage community.

Composition

The Forum draws upon the time and expertise of staff from all the major UK heritage organisations, who provide the Core Membership and funding for Forum projects.

If you would like your organisation to become a Core Member, contact the Forum Convenor (see www.fish-forum.info for details).

How to get involved

Become a Discussion List Member

Forum discussion list membership is open to anyone with an interest in heritage data standards and their application. List members will receive news about forum activities. They may ask questions of the forum and can participate in discussion and peer review of new standards.

To find out more about the work of FISH, and the FISH Discussion List visit the FISH Forum website at www.fish-forum.info

Images supplied courtesy of: ADS, English Heritage, Museum of London and The National Trust. This poster was funded by the kind donations of the following organisations:

