'Understanding & Challenging Racism' 28th February - 1st March

a three-day personal development course for people from black and minority ethnic communities

You don't understand racism just because you're black - and yet it is often assumed that you do!

This course will make sure you understand the systematic nature of racism and its impact on you and your relationships.

It will also develop your assertiveness skills in challenging racism and all discriminatory treatment.

Led by Gillian Neish and including on day three, participation in the 'blue-eyed - brown-eyed' exercise with Jane Elliott.

3 Day Residential Course, Central London location.

full details from Neish Training

janeelliott is the adaptor of the challenging 'Blue-eyed, Brown-eyed' exercise in discrimination, developed in response to the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. Since then she has repeated the exercise, with dramatic results, in many parts of the world. Her films, including 'The Eye of the Storm' and 'The Angry Eye' are used in organisations in all sectors to show the negative effects of racism and other discriminatory treatment and the responsibility of us all to challenge them.

During this thought-provoking three-hour 'Anatomy of Prejudice' seminar Jane talks about her life's work and, in her uncompromising style, explores with the audience the problems of racism, sexism, ageism, homophobia and ethnocentrism.

Valuing diversity in the workplace makes good business sense. However, moving from paper policies to practical reality can be a challenging task. Jane's seminar will give participants the encouragement and confidence to play their part in helping make equity a reality in their own organisation and beyond!

"I had been using Jane Elliott's powerful videos for a number of years as part of my own race and equity work. However early in 2001 I heard her speak and was so inspired and enthused by her message that I was determined that more people in the UK should have the chance to hear her. Below are just a few of the many overwhelmingly positive comments that have been received as a result."

Gillian Neish
Neish Training

"I was concerned that Jane Elliott may not live up to the expectations I had created when I was first introduced to her work as a child. However some 20 years on and Jane exceeded any possible expectations. She spoke with passion, understanding and commitment, which left me feeling empowered and invigorated. A year later and that feeling still remains with me."

Maxine Coley
West Mercia Constabulary

"Jane Elliott is such an incredibly inspirational speaker. Her message is a must for everyone in the people business."

Martin Randall
Enfield Disability Action

"Jane Elliott's seminar gave me one of the most inspiring mornings of my life. I did not always like what I heard, but we all need to hear it."

Johan Parry
Lauder College, Fife

"Jane Elliott tells the story of 'difference' differently, in a way that makes everything else slightly different to the way it looked before. The story becomes a message and the message becomes a mission. It's a message forged and sharpened by her own experience, imagination and, one has to say, personal suffering, but wielded with wicked humour and delivered ruthlessly. If the message fails to register with you - then you're just not there!"

Paul Southgate
CPS North East

"The whole experience was profoundly affecting in ways I couldn't have predicted and it has occupied a significant part of my waking thoughts ever since (nearly two weeks). I wonder if we should make it part of the National Curriculum?"

Vivienne Brown
Department for Education and Skills

"Attending the Trainers' Week was a life changing experience and shifted me quite dramatically from my comfort zone."

Pat Davers
BBC Scotland
