

The Ethics of Development

Des Gasper

A self-contained introduction to the field of ethics and development for students, practitioners and the general reader.

The Ethics of Development asks what is good 'development', of societies and for people. It looks at how equating development with economic growth has been challenged, examining whom that growth benefits or harms and which aspects of life it values or excludes and can favour or damage. It goes on to explore an alternative conception – that of 'human development', meaning achievement with respect to a wider range of values and the advancement of people's freedom to achieve well-reasoned values.

'Des Gasper has written the best book available on the "ethics of development" -- its history, scope, and challenges. Offering searching criticisms of mainstream development as conceptually blinded to human destitution and social justice, Gasper insightfully analyzes and evaluates alternative development visions. Novice and specialist alike will benefit from his careful dissection of such concepts as economic growth, efficiency, equity, poverty, violence, basic human needs, culture, and human development.'

Professor David Crocker, University of Maryland

The book synthesises ideas from philosophy, economics and social theory, building in particular on the work of Len Doyal, Ian Gough, Martha Nussbaum and Amartya Sen. Dealing carefully and sympathetically with a range of viewpoints, it elucidates complex issues with the help of historical and contemporary examples. It caters especially to students in development studies, anthropology, economics, philosophy, political science and social policy.

Contents include:

- Preface
- 1. What is the Ethics of Development?
- 2. The Meaning of 'Development'
- 3. 'Efficiency & Effectiveness' - Mainstream Development Evaluation in Theory & Practice
- 4. 'Equity' - Who Bear Costs and Who Reap Benefits?
- 5. Violence and Human Security
- 6. Needs and Basic Needs
- 7. 'Human Development': Capabilities and Positive Freedom
- 8. Cultures and the Ethics of Development
- 9. Epilogue
- Bibliography

Des Gasper is an Associate Professor of Public Policy at the Institute of Social Studies, The Hague, a centre of development studies where he is currently Dean of teaching.

Edinburgh Studies in World Ethics

March 2004
234x156mm 272pp
Pb 0 7486 1058 8 £16.99

ORDER FORM

☐ Please send me _____ copy/ies of Gasper, The Ethics of Development, Pb 0 7486 1058 8 £16.99 *

*Price includes postage and packing in the UK

Name Address
. Postcode
Telephone Email

Payment Details

- ☐ I enclose a cheque for _____ made payable to Marston Book Services
- ☐ Please debit my VISA/Mastercard/American Express/Delta (ENTER CARD DETAILS BELOW)
- ☐ Please charge my Switch card (issue number ____ Issue date ____ / ____ card details below)

Card number Exp Date

Signature

Please return to:

Edinburgh University Press, 22 George Square, Edinburgh, EH8 9LF. Tel. 0131 650 4218 Fax 0131 662 0053
Email marketing@eup.ed.ac.uk

Visit our website @ www.eup.ed.ac.uk