

Funding social justice – A special issue from Alliance Magazine

Alliance magazine – special issue on funding social justice

This special issue of Alliance magazine asks what social justice means and how charitable foundations can promote it in their grantmaking. It looks both at the continuing barriers to funding social justice and at some of the positive things that are happening to overcome the barriers – for example, looking at ways to measure the impact of social justice work, or setting up new country or regional funds to support human rights.

Guest Editors for the special feature

Gary Craig, Professor of Social Justice, Hull University and President of International Association for Community Development

Firoze Manji, Executive Director of Fahamu and Editor of Pambazuka News

Articles include:

- # Interview with Betty Murungi, Director of Urgent Action Fund-Africa, on the challenges of raising funds in Africa to support women's human rights
- # Delivering social justice through philanthropy Gary Craig – plus comments from Charlie McConnell, CEO, Carnegie UK Trust; Emmett Carson, President and CEO, Minneapolis Foundation, USA; Alexander Irwan, Executive Director, Tifa Foundation, Indonesia
- # From noblesse oblige to solidarity Firoze Manji
- # Why does social justice so often lose out? Stephen Pittam, Secretary, Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust
- # 'Out'-ing the social justice agenda Ingrid Srinath, Executive Director, CRY, India
- # Measuring social justice philanthropy David Bonbright, CEO, Keystone, UK
- # Buying social change? Venkat Krishnan, Executive Director, GIVE Foundation, India
- # Social justice not high on the agenda Christa Kulijan, Visiting Research Fellow, Centre for Policy Studies, Johannesburg, South Africa
- # The politics of social justice philanthropy Fateh Azzam, Director of Forced Migration and Refugee Studies Program at the American University of Cairo
- # Building a sustainable movement – human rights funding in Brazil Oscar Vilhena Vieira, Executive Director, Conectas Human Rights, Brazil
- # Doing good and being good How do social justice funders themselves become socially just organizations? Article based on contributions from foundations around the world

About Alliance

Alliance is the leading magazine on philanthropy and social investment across the world. Published quarterly by overseas development NGO Allavida, it tracks the latest trends and developments in civil society funding and provides expert analysis of these trends from northern and southern perspectives.

Alliance is the only publication that addresses these issues from a genuinely international perspective. Our contributors are drawn from countries across the world, ensuring that Alliance's articles and analysis reflect diverse perspectives.

Buy this issue of Alliance – and save 20% on the full price!

You can buy this special issue of Alliance on 'Funding Social Justice' for just £20. To save £5 on the full cover price, simply visit:

www.allavida.org/alliance/0506-singleissue.html, and order your copy.

But hurry – this offer lasts only until 15 June