Call for Entries

The Design Graphics Portfolio issue has come of age and is now its own stand-alone publication to be known as DG Portfolio.

As before, DG Portfolio will showcase a wide range of images from around the world. The images will be computer graphics, photographic, executed using an image editing application (such as Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator or CorelDraw) or a combination of photographic, computer and manual techniques.

Files must be submitted in digital format by CD or DVD.

DG

Portfolio 2006

The annual Design Graphics Portfolio issue has become very popular. Now in its seventh year, we're doing it again—and better than ever!

We invite submissions from image professionals to make this the best collection so far. So, get creative and send us your best work.

Starting with the 2006 issue, DG Portfolio is its own stand-alone publication. Make sure your work is included in the 2006 edition. Entries close 14 October.

Categories

We're looking for fine imagery. Test us with your creativity! We expect to see top flight graphic design, digital illustration, photography, image manipulation, new media, computer graphics, packaging, logos, fonts and typography, 3D, television graphics, television commercials, movie titles and effects.

Who can submit?

Design studios, advertising agencies, corporate marketing departments, clients, digital artists, graphic designers, photographers and illustrators (worldwide) are all welcome to submit material. Tell all your friends too. We'd like to see as many examples of fine work as we can squeeze into a single publication. With your help, it will be better than ever.

Contact details

Don't forget to tell us who you are: name, company, address, phone, fax and email should do it.

Formats

Not so generous here:

Tiff images up to 30Mb, RGB or CMYK
EPS files

All entries must be suitable (large enough) to allow for print reproduction. Do NOT send low res images and ask us to get back to you if we are interested.

Send only high resolution images (except for web graphics, of course) on a CD or DVD. Please DO NOT send emails with attachments.

Number

A maximum of 6 entries per person.

Legal stuff

In the following, the 'Publisher' indicates the publisher of the work in question.

By submitting entries for any DG International Pty Ltd publication, the entrant agrees as follows:

It is the responsibility of the entrant to ensure that submissions comply with all relevant laws, standards and codes of practice. The Publisher is not responsible for any loss or damage associated with submissions, however caused.

The Publisher will not accept or be liable for any postage, shipping, courier or freight costs associated with submissions.

There are no refunds if submissions are withdrawn. No material will be returned.

All Entrants agree that submissions can be used by the Publisher, its agents and assigns, on an irrevocable, royalty-free basis worldwide in the publication for which it is submitted, and in marketing and promotional material for the publication, or the series of which it forms a part. Entrants are obligated to ensure that they have the right to submit material, have obtained the necessary permissions and that the submission is free of copyright restrictions that would prevent or influence publication.

It is the Entrant's responsibility to ensure that all appropriate credits accompany the work, and that all credits are true and correct. Entrants agree to indemnify the Publisher against any costs or litigation arising from any breach of these terms and conditions. DG International Pty Ltd reserves the right to refuse or exclude any submission without giving reason for such refusal or exclusion, or not to publish the publication for which the submissions are intended.

Submission fees are not refundable, as such fees are used to cover administration costs.

Please note: No correspondence will be entered into.
