As a result of significant internal investment by the University, the Centre for Ethnicity and Health is establishing a new Institute that will be:

- Research led - drawing particularly on the resources of philosophy
- Practically focused - contributing to policy, service development and user-engagement within diverse communities
- International in scope - in partnership with the International Network for Philosophy and Psychiatry, and a wide international group of colleagues.

As suitably qualified and experienced academic researchers, you must have a strong track record of research and publication in recognised peer reviewed journals within a relevant discipline - including philosophy, psychiatry, neuroscience, psychology, sociology, anthropology and law.

You will join a core team of professors and researchers with experience in philosophy, values based practice, policy development, equality and human rights, minority communities, ageing, community engagement and social inclusion, user and citizen centrality. Knowledge and/or experience and interest in applying research results to one of these areas will be an advantage.

This is an exciting opportunity to be at the forefront of a leading edge development. For an initial discussion please contact one of the Institute Co-directors Profs Chris Heginbotham/ Bill Fulford or the Centre Head Prof. Lord Kamlesh Patel on 01772 892780.

Apply on line and obtain further details at: www.uclan.ac.uk/jobs or call 01772 892324 quoting relevant reference number. Closing date: 23 June 2006 at 4pm.
