If you'd like to be able to draw your own cartoons to help get your message across, but think you can't draw – this is the workshop for you!

"An engaging day full of learning, new ways of thinking and great fun! I recommend it unreservedly."

Andrena Cumella,
Senior Fellow,
Office for Public
Management

- A hands-on workshop in which you will learn the fundamentals of cartoon drawing with an experienced professional cartoonist
- An enhanced understanding of how cartooning and visual thinking can make you a more effective communicator and trainer
- Practical strategies and ideas for using cartooning in a variety of settings, from the training room to the board room
- Two facilitators ensure individual attention for every participant. The workshop is led by professional cartoonist Martin Shovel and Martha Leyton of CreativityWorks.

In the morning session we explore what drawing really is, and why everyone can do it! By the end you will be able to draw your own people and animals, expressions, objects and contexts, and you will have the know-how to develop your cartooning as far as you want to take it.

The afternoon session is about 'thinking like a cartoonist' and applying your drawing skills in your work. You will develop some cartoon ideas that will be immediately useful to you, and you'll be able to practice live cartooning within the supportive framework of the group.

"Every trainer/facilitator should attend this workshop. Invaluable."

Barry Bond, Transition Partners

Course fee: £345 per delegate - Includes lunch, refreshments, materials and tuition.
