

© Copyright in the NHS

NHS STAFF

Printed books and journals

You may make paper copies and scanned copies from most printed journals and books under the terms of the NHS CLA Licence*

- © Copies must be for NHS staff and for NHS purposes
- © You may copy two articles from a journal issue (more if it is a thematic issue), one chapter from a book or 5% of above, whichever is greater
- © Within these extent limits, you may make multiple copies
- © Single paper copies relating to a patient's condition or treatment may be made for patients and carers
- © Scanned copies can be used in Power Point presentations but cannot be placed on intranets or websites
- © You should always acknowledge the source of your copies
- © No copies may be made from newspapers

Electronic works

You may only download and print material for the purposes of

- private study
- non-commercial research
- non-commercial purposes

- © Always check copyright notices on websites
- © Ask permission if you want to make more than one copy
- © E-journals are covered by publisher licences*: generally you may only print out an article once
- © You may not copy images or any other electronic media without permission

NON-NHS STAFF AND STUDENTS

Restrictions apply: please consult with Library staff

FOR FURTHER HELP....

Please ask Library Staff

*Library staff can supply more information about the NHS CLA Licence (including the list of excluded works) and also about electronic licences. <http://www.library.nhs.uk/forlibrarians/copyright>

Stay on the right side of the law!