

University of California
San Francisco

FACULTY POSITION POSTING

The Department of Anthropology, History and Social Medicine University of California, San Francisco (UCSF)

Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Anthropology, History and Social Medicine at the University of California, San Francisco announces an opening for a tenure-track position in medical anthropology, with duties commencing at any time between January – September 2008. The successful applicant will be responsible for teaching in the joint UCSF -UC Berkeley Graduate Medical Anthropology Program as well as health professional students at UCSF. The position is open to candidates of assistant and associate professor level, but preference will be given to candidates with a proven track record of relevant research and publications, and with strong graduate-level teaching accomplishments. Preferred candidates will be familiar with teaching and research opportunities in a clinically-oriented health sciences environment. Theoretical and geographic areas of specialization are open. Topical interests are not limited but should complement existing interests in the Department and are especially desired in science, technology and medicine studies, international health and/or global science.

REQUIREMENTS: PhD in anthropology or medical anthropology, and a distinguished publication record. Preference will be given to candidates with grant application experience, a proven track record of relevant research and publications, and strong graduate-level teaching accomplishments.

Candidates should send a letter of interest, names only (not letters) of three references, and curriculum vita to Search Chair, c/o Kimberly Bissell, Job Number M-2916, Department of Anthropology, History and Social Medicine, University of California, San Francisco, 3333 California Street, Suite 485, San Francisco, CA 94118. Applications received by October 1, 2007 will be considered fully, however, the search will remain open until a suitable candidate is found. UCSF seeks candidates whose expertise, teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. UCSF is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. The University undertakes affirmative action to assure equal employment opportunity for underutilized minorities and women, for persons with disabilities, and for covered veterans. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply, including minorities and women.

Please Send Applications by October 1, 2007.