Edexcel has recently released the brand new specification for Chinese AS, to be implemented in May 2009. For the first time, the exam will include Oral and Listening Chinese.

Whilst Chinese for AS has been compiled especially to address all aspects of the new specification, it is also useful for students taking other studies in Chinese.

Chinese for AS includes 20 texts address all the topics required for the exam in 5 units:

- Family life and youth interests
- Food, diet and health
- Transport, travel and tourism
- Education and employment
- Leisure time and Chinese festivals

There is a chance for the students to consolidate their learning with mock AS papers at the end of each unit.

The book aims to:

- Become familiar with the new examination patterns
- Help students expand their vocabulary
- Provide abundant practice materials suitable for users with a range of goals: IB, HSK or students taking Chinese at university
- Encourage students to develop a deeper understanding of Chinese
- Help students develop awareness and understanding of the contemporary society, cultural background and heritage of China.

- Do all this in a fun and logical manner

Included with the Book

- CD containing listening practice
- Full mark scheme

Chinese for GCSE helps students to achieve their potential as language learners, enabling them to overcome the inherent complexity of Chinese and reach GCSE and equivalent proficiency through a new approach to learning.

The distinctive features of this series of textbooks are:

The students are active participants in the language learning process, playing the main role in exploring, discovering and practising the language. The teacher's role is to support students by providing examples of correct pronunciation, vocabulary and grammar, while assessing the student's progress.

The student learns to use Chinese characters from the very first lesson; pinyin supports this process, but is rapidly phased out. Vocabulary and grammar are built up systematically throughout the book. Character practice and a high frequency of repetition ensure the better recognition and memorization of Chinese characters. Students who follow this approach tend to move ahead of those who stick with pinyin during the second year of study.

Get Ahead in Chinese systematically covers the grammar and vocabulary required by candidates working towards GCSE and equivalent examinations. Apart from the examination considerations, the course aims to enable the pupils to communicate with Chinese about the things they find mutually interesting; to travel in China as a tourist and to provide a basis for future study and employment.

From the first unit the learner develops all four language skills, listening, speaking, reading and writing. Each unit contains three activities which reinforce learning points through realistic tasks, topics and settings.

Year: 2004

This textbook is designed for age 6-10 children using dialogues applicable to children's everyday life. While studying this textbook, you can listen to the accompanying cassette tapes (CDs) to hear dialogues between native speakers. Practicing and reciting these dialogues will lead a child's ears and mouth to "open" naturally.

Pronunciation, including initials and finals, are taught using funny cartoons. Kids can quickly and easily associate these pictures with Chinese characters.

Detailed descriptions of tones, one of the most important characteristics of the Chinese language, are provided.

Learn Chinese with Me

跟我学汉语

Chinese-English

People's Education Press

Learn Chinese with Me is a series of textbooks designed for high school students. It is mainly targeted at high school students (or teenagers aged between 13 and 18 learning Chinese as a second language) whose mother tongue is English. The series is designed for the teaching of Chinese from beginner to intermediate level and about 2,000 Chinese words are included in the 4 Student's Books.

The entire series of Learn Chinese with Me is composed of 12 books, including 4 Student's Books, 4 Teacher's Books, 4 Workbooks and other phonetic and listening materials and multimedia materials supplemented to the Student's Books.

As a series, Books 1-4 of Learn Chinese with Me possess the following features: The functions and language points in the two neighbouring books are advanced in spiral cycles that sometimes overlap so as to enable the students to learn the knowledge step by step. The grammar structures and functions in Books 1 and 2 are combined together under a certain topic. Books 3 and 4 focus on functional usages while maintaining language points.

With regard to functional usages, Books 1 and 2 focus on spoken expression of single sentences; Books 3 and 4 are aimed at equipping the students with speaking abilities to express themselves in a set of sentences and improving their reading abilities.

As a supplement to the Student's Book, there are 6-8 types of interesting exercises for each lesson in the Workbook, and the forms will change accordingly when the content of the textbook moves towards a higher level. The Workbook can be used both as self-learning materials and for class work.

The Teacher's Book provides teachers with introductions to each unit and lesson, compiling principles, supplementary materials to each lesson in the Student's Book, teaching approaches, and language evaluation strategies etc.

Kuaile Hanyu (Chinese for GCSE)

快乐汉语

People's Education Press

This series, a joint project of NOCFL and the British Council is published by the People's Education Press in August 2003. It aims at the English-speaking middle school students aged eleven to sixteen. Fun with Chinese focuses on the training of Chinese communicative competence, and also on motivating the learners. It is devoted to forming a solid foundation for the learners' further study.

The series consists of Student's Book and Teacher's Book. The Teacher's Book contains the instructional tips and exercises. Also available are other teaching products such as flash cards, maps for teaching, audiotapes and videotapes.

The series is divided into three levels. Each level consists of a course book (Student's Book) and a Teacher's book. There are six books altogether. Each book can be used for one school year, 90-100 class hours. The user can regulate the instruction according to the condition of students and teaching.

The content of the textbook and exercises have been designed according to the requirement of the NC and GCSE (2003). There are some necessary regulations and supplements based on the need of basic communication and the character of classroom teaching. The learners are expected to reach NC level 8 when they finish.

Price: £87.95

This multimedia software consists of 16 CD-ROMs, together with 5 books. It covers 300,000 Chinese words and relevant English explanations.

Using a step-by-step approach, it starts from the Chinese phonetic alphabet and ends at the HSK examination. It is designed to help you learn oral Chinese during the study of the Chinese phonetic alphabet. Each Chinese character is accompanied by Chinese phonetic alphabet. Each Chinese word or sentence is explained in English.

After you finish it, you will be able to speak fluently and write smoothly. You will be able to reach the intermediate level, which is mentioned in the HSK examination. And also, during the study of the Chinese idioms and proverbs, you will be able to have a good understanding about the traditional culture and the long history of China.

This software can be used as teaching material by educational institutions, as well as people who are learning Chinese, especially by businessmen who are studying Chinese by their own.

The five books are Textbook I, Textbook II, Pinyin & Writing, Reading Material, HSK Mock Test.

This set of cards includes the 800 most commonly used Chinese characters. It will improve learners' ability to read and write Chinese characters efficiently. Words made up with the character, and sentences made up with the words will deepen learners' understanding of the characters. It is suitable for non-native Chinese speakers and overseas Chinese.

Each character is accompanied by pinyin, illustrations, two or more words, and one sentence (mostly in the fields of daily life, study, entertainment, work, travel, and business), covering a vocabulary of 3000 characters. The non-simplified characters are also given for reference.

Apart from 100 characters in each set, it also introduces some knowledge about pinyin, writing Chinese characters, Chinese numerals, measurements, proverbs, idioms, two-part allegorical expressions, and Tang poems.

This set of cards is accompanied by multimedia software. Animation, pictures, words, and sound make learners study easy and vivid.

Say It Easily

开口就说—汉语口语短句精粹

Chinese-English-Korean-Japanese

By Wang Xiaoning

To say Chinese easily, one must start from short daily sentences. This series includes 500 oral Chinese sentences, which are fresh, pure and frequently used. They can represent the trend of current Chinese. All sentences are divided into 43 categories, such as greetings, gratitude, agreement and disagreements and etc. For every short sentence, it has two groups of dialogs indicating when and how to use it. This will suit learners of different levels. To master oral Chinese in a short period, one should also use the free CD attached to this book. If you listen to the CD, read after it, imitate repeatedly, try your best to recite them, we believe it is not difficult for you to speak perfect Chinese.

Readers will also encounter various minor characters active in every class of society. Each story is followed by a vocabulary list which is annotated with pinyin and explanations in both English and French. This book can be used not only as an aid in learning Chinese and developing reading ability, but also as an aid in reading the original work.

A Dream of Red Mansions (Abridged Version)

红楼梦

Sinolingua

ISBN7800524167

Price £ 4.50 p 17x10.5cm 252pp

'A Dream of Red Mansions' is a masterpiece of classical Chinese literature written by Cao Xueqin in the mid-18th century. It is a tragedy about love and marriage among Jia Baoyu, Lin Daiyu and Xue Baochai. The story is set against a vast background of a feudal society interwoven with the lives of hundreds of men and women. While boldly revealing the conflicts between aristocrats and their corrupt lives, it bitterly condemns the doomed feudal system that had initiated the love tragedy. Each chapter of the abridged version is followed by a list of words in pinyin and English. Difficult language terms are also annotated in English.
