

Education Development Officer

Museum of Farnham, Farnham, Surrey
£23,600 pro rata (i.e. £9,560 per annum), 15 hours/week (to suit you),
Temporary for 2 years

Do you have imagination and enthusiasm and enjoy working with people? Are you looking for an exciting and challenging role?

The award winning Museum of Farnham occupies one of England's finest 18th century town houses. Built in 1718, it retains many original features, including a beautiful walled garden. The museum is at the heart of its community and is particularly noted for its successful education programme and its family friendliness.

The Museum of Farnham has recently been awarded a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund and other partners. This is to replace a prefabricated building, in the garden, with an attractive multipurpose structure that will enable the museum to extend its service to the community and provide increased public access. This post is part of this exciting community project.

To be successful, you will have a full understanding of education work in a heritage setting, experience of working with and organising volunteers and be full of inspirational ideas.

Your main duties will include:

- Consulting widely with the community to identify new audiences for the extended museum services
- Developing and evaluating programmes of activities to reach target audiences
- Working with museum staff to develop resources to support family learning
- Recruiting and training teams of volunteers to assist with service delivery
- Managing a small budget and meeting deadlines for milestones with the project timetable.
