

17TH IARJC CONFERENCE 2008
International Association for Research in Juvenile Criminology

L'Association Internationale de Recherche en Criminologie Juvénile
International Association for Research in Juvenile Criminology

Promoting Positive Practices: Transforming Youth Justice Policy and Practice

SWANSEA UNIVERSITY
WEDNESDAY 26TH – SATURDAY 29TH MARCH 2008

The conference will address the theme of 'Promoting Positive Practices: Transforming Youth Justice Policy and Practice'. The conference will embrace positive practices in the areas of both prevention of delinquency and direct work with young people who have offended. Policy and practice interventions in communities, schools, sentencing, youth justice services/interventions and specialist institutions (education, treatment centres and custody) will be explored.

This international conference will provide a lively, engaging and stimulating environment to learn about, discuss and debate key issues in youth justice. A wide range of participation is expected from policy makers, managers, practitioners and researchers. World leading figures will be making a series of plenary presentations and participants are encouraged to present their work in a range of seminars/workshops.
