

Become a developer with a conscience

MA Planning and Sustainability

This vocationally based MA degree course recognises the importance of sustainability in a planning and development context and leads to a forward-looking professionally recognised qualification

The programme is delivered full time or part time, by a team of University academics and practitioners from the built environment professions. Teaching takes place at Kingston University and is supplemented by a field trip, site visits and guest speakers.

The course is fully accredited by the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) and by the Royal Town Planning Institute (RTPI).
