

Racial Justice & Human Rights:

WHOSE TERROR IS IT ANYWAY?

The conference explores the following contemporary challenges reshaping the race relations landscape in our region.

1. How has the government's 'war on terror' affected visible minorities in Yorkshire?
2. Is the implementation of draconian anti-terror legislation an inevitable price for public safety?
3. Has the government's community cohesion and preventing violent extremism strategies achieved its vision of harmonious communities?
4. Has the detention of suspects without trial and increased security and police surveillance created a breach between visible minorities and the state?
5. Can community activism and resistance be effectively mobilised to challenge the attrition of civil liberties?

Delegates will have the opportunity to participate in a question and answer session with human rights experts and regional policy makers during the conference plenary.

Conference Fees:

Statutory Organisations	£80
Voluntary Sector Organisations	£45
Community Groups and waged individuals	£25
Students	£10
Unwaged	Free

A limited number of bursary places are available. The conference venue has disabled access.

Places will be offered on a first come first served basis once a booking form is received.

Please make payments to JUST West Yorkshire.

Unit 32, Carlisle Business Centre
60 Carlisle Road, Bradford.
BD8 8BD

For further information:

Email: admin@justwestyorkshire.co.uk

Tel: 01274 542222

JUST is funded by the
Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust

