Drugs and alcohol are a major and growing health problem for professionals working in health and social care. Increasingly, we have to work not only with adults who are addicted but their children too. This conference also looks at the impact of substance misuse on adolescents and we will look at recent research in this area.

Can addicts function effectively as parents?
What are the risks?
What methods of intervention work?
How is the workforce affected by working in this area?
What is the impact of this work on the workers?

During the day a range of settings will be represented:

- A children's centre
- A specialist addiction team
- An innovative family, drug and alcohol court - a unique project based on an American model, shown to be highly effective.

The main focus of the conference will be on the impact of drug and alcohol abuse on:

- Adolescent users
- Addicts who are parents - can they function as parents?
- The worker

Workshops

These workshops will allow you to explore with other colleagues, how you might apply the ideas from the conference in your own settings. These workshops are facilitated by Tavistock staff who are also working in the field of drug and alcohol problems.
