(1) Aim:

AESCS 2009 brings together researchers and practitioners from diverse fields, such as computer science, economics, physics, and complex system theory for understanding social complex systems. AESCS 2009 mainly focuses on applications of agent-based technologies to social complex systems. Conference participants will present the latest results of various researches, and discuss emergent phenomena and modeling issues of social complex systems, which will provide further understanding on social complex problems with agent-based technologies.

(2) Topics:

The topics include, but not limited to:

- 1) Formal Theories on Agent-based Approaches
Agent-based computational foundations; Theories on rationality, intention, and emotion; Social behaviors, social action, and social interaction; Mathematical organization theory; Mathematical sociology
- 2) Computational Economics and Organization Theory
Agent-based computational economics; Econophysics; Market-oriented computing; Artificial markets; Agents in financial engineering; Computational organization theory;
- 3) Modeling, Simulation and Validation Techniques
Toolkits and methods for agent-based simulation; Large scale social simulation; Validation and verification of simulation results and simulation systems;
- 4) Gaming Simulation

- Gaming simulation; Participatory simulation; Hybridization of agent-based simulation and gaming simulation
- 5) Collective Intelligence
Collective decision and behaviors; Emergent intelligence; Social intelligence
 - 6) Applications of Agent-based Modeling
Organization and industrial design; Electronic commerce; Community design; Environment problems; Emergency management: prevention of disasters, epidemic diseases, and finance collapses; Medical and insurance systems; Public policies; Spatial modeling, pedestrian modeling; Marketing decision support
 - 7) Related Areas
