

Systemic Research Seminars

Encouraging and Engaging with Systemic Research

Autumn / Winter 2010

We are holding a research seminar series on Thursdays from 5:30-7:30 at the Tavistock Clinic through the autumn/winter term of 2010.

In this series an invited systemically-oriented researcher will present their research, with some interactive participation from the seminar membership.

These seminars aim to support current researchers, encourage budding researchers, and help those interested in research to meet each other and exchange ideas.

Oct 21, 2010 Peter Stratton

A qual-quant journey from child abuse to changing BP's culture and back: how you can do better research and have just as much fun

Nov 4, 2010 Myrna Gower

From ideas to theory: a qualitative research tool applied to transcribed interviews with parents of adult children

Nov 18, 2010 Reenee Singh

Families' constructions of cultural difference between themselves and their clinicians: through the lenses of two qualitative research methods

Dec 2, 2010 Ceri Bowen & Giles Yeates

Arguing for an ecology of mind within a world of isolated brains: systemic research strategies in neuroscience

Dec 16, 2010 Charlotte Burck

Qualitative research: What can it do for us systemic clinicians?

Seminars will be held in the 5th floor Meeting Room,
Tavistock & Portman NHS Foundation Trust,
Tavistock Centre, 120 Belsize Lane, London NW3 5BA

Please email systemicresearchcentre@tavi-port.nhs.uk to reserve a place at the seminar or seminars of your choice; space is limited.

You can also visit our website at <http://www.uel-ftsrc.org/>. To find out more about upcoming research events, join our distribution list at <http://www.uel-ftsrc.org/contact.htm>