

PUBLIC FORUM

UNIVERSITY OF
CAMBRIDGE
Centre For Gender Studies

World class experts engage directly with the public on topics of gender and radical bio-medical advances of the 21st Century.

What can the latest scientific advances tell us about gender; what will be possible in the future and why does it matter?

18:45-20:15, Tuesday 2nd November 2010 Making Babies in the 21st Century: the Rise of Reproductive Technologies

Panel members:

Baroness Onora O'Neill, Moral Philosopher, Chair, Nuffield Foundation
Professor Marcia Inhorn, William K Lanman Jr Professor of Anthropology and International Affairs, Yale University
Professor Susan Golombok, Director, Centre for Family Research - Developmental Psychology, University of Cambridge
Professor Carl Djerassi, Inventor of the modern day contraceptive pill, Emeritus Professor of Chemistry, Stanford University

18:45-20:15, Tuesday 16th November 2010 Gendered Behaviour: what can Science tell us?

Panel members:

Professor Deborah Cameron, Rupert Murdoch Professor of Language and Communication, University of Oxford
Professor Robin Dunbar, Director, Institute of Cognitive and Evolutionary Anthropology, University of Oxford
Professor Elizabeth Spelke, Director, Development Studies Laboratory, Cognitive Psychology, Harvard University
Professor Simon Baron-Cohen Director, Autism Research Centre, Department of Psychiatry and Experimental Psychology, University of Cambridge

18:45-20:15, Wednesday 1st December 2010 Transitioning Gender: the Challenges of Radical Technologies

Panel members:

Professor Judith (Jack) Halberstam, Director, Centre for Feminist Research, University of California, San Diego
Professor Richard Green, Research Director and Consultant Psychiatrist, Gender Identity Clinic, Charing Cross Hospital, 1994-2006
Dr Jens Scherpe, Faculty of Law, University of Cambridge
Ben Thom, Vice-President, Press For Change

Hall 2, Kings Place, 90 York Way London N1 9AG

Tickets are £9.50 per event online (<http://www.kingsplace.co.uk/booking-information>) and £11.50 at the box office

University of Cambridge Centre for Gender Studies in association with the Guardian and kindly supported by Cambridge University Press

theguardian

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

For further details about forthcoming events, see: www.gender.cam.ac.uk