

HIV and AIDS Education Conference

27-28 September 2011
Zanzibar Beach Resort, Zanzibar, Tanzania

Envisioning Africa without HIV and AIDS: The role of education

AIMS OF THE CONFERENCE

This conference aims to provide a platform for researchers, educators, activists and policy makers in the field of HIV and AIDS education - working on the continent - to make their voices heard through sharing knowledge on the role that education has played and can play in mitigating the effects of the HI virus. The conference will enable participants to share and discuss their work and ideas about HIV and AIDS education.

The theme of the conference is intended to highlight the centrality of the role of education in mitigating the impact of HIV and AIDS. With or without the cure for the virus, HIV and AIDS education remains an important means to combat the AIDS epidemic. It is thus important to take stock of the achievements and contributions that education has made in addressing HIV and AIDS, and reflect on the challenges that lie ahead as we contemplate the future of the continent. The conference provides a unique forum for this reflection. Issues for discussion and debate will include: How do we conceptualize HIV and AIDS education in Sub-Saharan Africa? How are we approaching prevention education? How are we drawing on African epistemologies to inform our interventions and research? How can education engage communities in addressing HIV and AIDS? How are we preparing the next generation for the future? How are we preparing graduates for living and working in the age of HIV and AIDS? How is our education and education research making a difference in contributing to an 'Africa without HIV and AIDS'? How is good quality education linked to HIV and AIDS prevention in sub-Saharan Africa? What are the ideological and practical barriers to HIV and AIDS education in the sub-Saharan Africa region?

This conference will be multidisciplinary in context, drawing on the knowledge and expertise from across disciplines, including education, psychology, sociology, health, medicine and others.

Specific themes of the conference are:

- HIV and AIDS education in schools
- HIV and AIDS education in out of school contexts
- HIV and AIDS education in higher education
- The impact of quality education on HIV and AIDS mitigation
- HIV and AIDS education for people with disabilities
- Faith and HIV & AIDS education
- Linking HIV and AIDS education with health services
