European Psychology Learning and Teaching Conference
28-30 June 2012, Vilnius University, Lithuania

Call for Papers

Europlat2012 is the conference organized by the Europlat Academic Network. This international conference provides an exciting forum for the discussion and exchange of knowledge, practice and expertise on all aspects of psychology teaching, learning and assessment, at both the undergraduate and the postgraduate level.

You are now invited to submit proposals for papers, workshops, and posters/demonstrations. We especially welcome submissions that contribute to:

- good practice in psychology teaching, learning or assessment;
- theoretical debate relevant to psychology teaching and learning;
- professional development related to psychology education.

Typical subjects for submission might include:

- evaluation studies of teaching, learning or assessment practice;
- innovative developments including a clear rationale and evaluation;
- surveys of practice in relation to psychology education in HE;
- informed discussion of policy or strategic issues.

All proposals will be reviewed for inclusion in the conference programme and proceedings.

*** Submission deadline - 5th January 2012 *****
