

HEA English Midlands Region History Teaching and Learning Workshop:

Historians in the workplace: The role of work placements in history teaching and learning

Date: Wednesday 9 May 2012. Venue: Wolverhampton Science Park, University of Wolverhampton, WV10 9RU

Programme:

- |             |   |
|-------------|---|
| 9.45-10.10  | Registration and coffee   |
| 10.10-10.15 | Welcome, Harvey Woolf (University of Wolverhampton)   |
| 10.15-10.45 | Keynote: Pauline Elkes (Staffordshire University), History and employability: the place and value of workplace learning in history undergraduate courses  |
| 10.45-11.45 | Approaches to history workplace learning in practice: examples from Steve Counce (University of Central Lancashire), Sarah Lloyd (University of Hertfordshire), Pat Cullum (University of Huddersfield), and Harriet Richmond (Newman University College) |
| 11.45-12.45 | Discussion I: Workplace learning: strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats  |
| 12.45-1.30  | Lunch and networking  |
| 1.30-2.00   | The provider's perspective: Philip Clayton (Royal Air Force Museum Cosford)   |
| 2.00-2.30   | Student and graduate experiences: Ken Harris (University of Wolverhampton Student Union President), Laura Kibble (University of Wolverhampton undergraduate historian), and Will Varnam (University of Wolverhampton Registry)                            |
| 2.30-2.45   | Tea and coffee  |
| 2.45-3.45   | Discussion II: Developing history work placements and a history work place learning network   |
| 3.45-4.00   | Feedback  |
| 4.00        | Closing remarks, Peter D'Sena (HEA History Discipline Lead)   |

Fee: Places are free and Higher Education Academy travel bursaries are available

Register now: Please contact Richard Hawkins at r.a.hawkins@wlv.ac.uk

The workshop and discussion will be facilitated by Harvey Woolf, an Associate of the Institute for Learning Enhancement, University of Wolverhampton. Please note the workshop will be filmed for the HEA website.