

SCHOOL OF POLITICAL, SOCIAL AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

As part of its continuing expansion, the School of Political, Social and International Studies at the University of East Anglia is looking to make five appointments. We are looking for scholars with a PhD, high-quality publications, and an active research agenda, as well as the capacity to attract research funding.

£38,140 to £44,166 per annum (Lecturer)

£45,486 to £52,706 per annum (Senior Lecturer)

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Media and Culture • Ref: ATR1037

Applications are welcome from well-qualified candidates with research interests in any aspect of consumer culture, identity politics, and/or media and cultural theory. In addition to teaching and researching in media and culture, the successful candidate will take a lead role in the School's postgraduate media programmes.

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in New Media • Ref: ATR1041

Applications are welcome from well-qualified candidates with research interests in any area of new media and society, new media and political communication, online journalism, and/or other aspects of new media. In addition to teaching and researching in new media, the successful candidate will take a lead role in the School's postgraduate media programmes.

Lecturer in International Media and Culture • Ref: ATR1038

We welcome applications from well-qualified candidates with research interests in international media, international communication, identity politics, and/or media in China, East Asia, or the Middle East. In addition to teaching and researching in the area of international media markets and culture, the successful candidate will take a lead role in the School's postgraduate media programmes.

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in British Politics • Ref: ATR1040

We welcome applications from well-qualified candidates with research interests in any area of British Politics. In addition to teaching and researching in British Politics, the successful candidate will manage and develop the School's parliamentary internship programme.

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Public Policy and Public Management • Ref: ATR1039

We welcome applications from well-qualified candidates with interests in any area of regulation, public policy and/or public management. In addition to teaching and researching in regulation, public policy and/or public management, the successful candidate will lead the MA/Res in Public Policy and Public Management.

All posts are full-time and indefinite and will commence between 1 July and 1 September 2012.

Closing date: 12 noon on 23 April 2012.

We especially welcome applicants from women, ethnic minorities and other groups currently underrepresented among the academic staff at the University of East Anglia.

Further particulars and an application form for all posts are available on our website: www.uea.ac.uk/hr/jobs/ or Tel. 01603 593493.