

Boehringer Ingelheim ranks amongst the world's top 20 leading pharmaceutical corporations. With nearly 41,000 employees in 47 countries we are a global team sharing knowledge and ambition to foster a healthier life.

In the UK and Ireland together we are creating excellence, living our principles of pride, valuing people and trust and we are proud to have been placed in the Sunday Times 100 Best Companies to Work for Survey 2012.

Value through innovation

Health Economists Academy Learn. Work. Earn.

Working within MAPOR (Market Access, Pricing and Outcomes Research), provides great insight into all aspects of market access within a multidisciplinary team. Colleagues, ranging from Health Economists to Policy Managers, bring complementary strengths and perspectives from a range of backgrounds. This unique structure ensures both the success and excellence of projects within a rewarding and supportive working environment.

Boehringer Ingelheim is currently offering an incredible opportunity for 2 Health Economics Masters graduates to enrol in our training scheme, containing tailored modules in areas which are designed to enable you to meet the various needs and demands of a changing healthcare environment, preparing you for a long and successful career in the Health Economics field.

Throughout your time with us, you will spend 18-24 months based here in our UK office in Bracknell, walking a defined career path with intensive training and mentoring, before being assigned to a further 2 years to complete your training (one post will continue to be based in the UK and another, requiring fluency in German, will be based in our German affiliate). At the end of your time with the programme, you may have the opportunity to stay in your assigned country, relocate to another of our international offices; all the while earning a competitive salary.

As part of Boehringer Ingelheim's training scheme, you will have the invaluable experience of working within a clearly defined programme for a prestigious global pharmaceutical company with a powerful and successful research base, for at least 4 years. You will also be eligible for our standard company benefits, including: bonus, Pension, Healthcare and 25 days annual leave.

To join our team, you will be a Health Economics Masters graduate with ambition and enthusiasm who is keen to progress in their chosen career. If you are seeking real-world experience and a career with a clearly mapped out future, please visit our careers website, www.bicareers.co.uk and apply online.

Closing date for all applications:
29th June 2012

We are an equal opportunities employer.

