The application period for the 2013 awards runs from November 2012 to January 25, 2013.

Student midwife Caroline Corcoran was supported by the Iolanthe Midwifery Trust in 2012 to travel to Takoradi in Ghana.

As well as observing and assisting in caring for women and babies, Caroline gained 'a deep belief in the central importance of human rights and equity in this field'.

We're delighted to be receiving support from MIDIRS for the students' awards.

You can advance your career by going on a course or elective visit, attending a conference or workshop, or starting a project to help women and babies: the Iolanthe Midwifery Trust may be able to help! Grants up to £1,000 are available.
