

Oxford Migration Studies Society

Annual Conference Migration: Theory and Practice

4 May 2013

Oxford Migration Studies Society

Annual Conference Migration: Theory and Practice 4 May 2013

The aim of the Conference is to explore different approaches to understanding migration as a fundamental part of today's world, highlight the way practice can inform theory, and discuss how academic theory can be used in real-world situations to understand the importance of migration for all involved.

The Society welcomes papers from all disciplines and practitioners around the world and papers can focus on the migration experience from the state's perspective, the migrant's perspective, the migration industry's perspective in sending and receiving countries as well as on the journey.

The Society encourages the submission of papers about migration in any region in the world and which use various methodologies. Submission abstracts are due on Saturday, 9 February 2013. Full papers will be due Sunday, 31 March 2013.

Please send all submissions to Oxford Migration Studies Society at oxford.mss@gmail.com

For more details, please check our website

<http://www.compas.ox.ac.uk/study/migration-studies-society/>

