TPM – Testing, Psychometrics, Methodology in Applied Psychology

ISSN: 1972-6325

Testing, Psychometrics, Methodology in Applied Psychology (TPM) is an international quarterly peer-reviewed journal published in English language.

This year TPM celebrates its 20th anniversary and wishes to collect high-level publications for this and future volumes.

TPM publishes original research, literature reviews and meta-analyses in the field of applied psychology. Particular emphasis is given to the application of sophisticated statistical methods and the construction and adaptation of measurement scales.

The mission of TPM is to be always up to date with the latest research and practical applications. Indeed, TPM opens a window on the problems of people, groups, and organizations in the contemporary society. As such, TPM represents a valuable place of encounter and exchange for scholars, professionals and students.

We invite articles on the following subjects: proposal of new measurement instruments, their adaptation in different social contexts, different problems of organizational and work psychology, marketing, psychology of health, applied social psychology (acculturation, intergroup conflicts and their reduction, family processes). Valid methods and strong theories are important, but new exciting ideas are even more important.

Once a manuscript is accepted for publication, it will undergo language copyediting, typesetting, and reference validation in order to provide the highest publication quality. Submitted papers must not be published elsewhere or presented to other journals or to conferences.

The journal is published in both print and online versions.

The journal is hosted in several web-based platforms such as PsycINFO, Scopus, Ebsco.
