The National Chinese Teaching Conference Brighton College Confucius Classroom 1st October 2013

The teaching of Mandarin Chinese has become increasingly developed in our schools over the last five years and Brighton College’s Confucius Classroom is pleased to present their autumn National Chinese Teaching Conference on the theme of ‘The Pursuit of Excellence’. We extend a warm invitation to all our colleagues to Brighton on the 1st October 2013 to come for a day of sharing good ideas and catching up with new developments. It promises to be an ideal opportunity to promote the teaching of Chinese in British schools, to share good practice and boost creative ideas in Chinese teaching at all levels. The day will be focused on not only classroom teaching, but also curriculum resource evaluation and development.

There will be keynote addresses on the development, challenges and ways forward for Chinese education in the years to come in the morning and later in the day there will be lots of opportunities to join in some exciting and practical workshop sessions.

The conference will cost £80 per delegate and places can be booked by returning the enclosed booking form to the address below.
