

Teaching and Learning Symposium

22 – 23 November, 2013

Melbourne

Venue:
Novotel on Collins

(<http://www.accorhotels.com/gb/hotel-1587-novotel-melbourne-on-collins/index.shtml>)

Symposium Theme: The Changing Dynamics of Teaching and Learning

Tracks:

- Balancing teaching & research demands
- MOOCs, opportunities and threats
- Teaching outside your culture
- Designing online experiential & team assignments
- Group learning through simulations
- Teaching students internationally and teaching international students
- Pain and pleasure of online and blended learning

In addition to papers relating to the above theme and tracks, PERA also encourages submissions focusing on the broader area of learning and teaching, especially submissions focusing on the practical art of teaching; case studies, games simulations and more.

Workshops: In addition to papers on the above tracks, we will also have 4 workshops of 60-90 minutes duration for you to select from (depending on demand).

1. Developing online courses
2. VET sector challenges
3. The use of smart phones, tablets and dedicated apps in teaching
4. The flipped classroom

SUBMISSION DEADLINE: Extended Abstracts; 14 October, 2013

FULL PAPERS submitted by November 10th will be considered for publication in the double-blind, peer-refereed PERA Journal (Employment Relations Record).

All enquiries to Christine O'Connor at c.oconnor@ballarat.edu.au

For further information please visit the official PERA web site: <http://www.pera.net.au/page1.php>