

BSA Youth Study Group Research Development Workshop for Research Students and Early Career Researchers

Thursday 7 November 2013, 10am – 4:30pm
BSA Meeting Room, London

Call for Delegates / Audience Participants

The BSA Youth Study Group invites research students and early career researchers working on or with an interest in any aspect of youth research to attend a research development workshop.

Several Early career and/ or PhD researchers will be making presentations about their work, with a view to developing and refining certain aspects of their own research project. The process will be supported by advice and guidance offered by experienced researchers in the fields of Sociology of Youth and Youth Studies, including Professor Shane Blackman, Canterbury Christchurch University.

With presenters now confirmed, we now invite delegates not wishing to present but who would like to take part in an observational capacity or share and discuss their ideas more informally.

It is a great opportunity to see the kinds of research taking place elsewhere and to think through theoretical and methodological issues that might be common in your own projects. In addition, the day will also provide a useful networking opportunity to meet other people researching in similar fields and to gain advice on publishing and reviewing for journals.

Registration

Please follow the link to register below (note: the registration link is the same for pre-agreed presenters and for non-presenting delegates)

Fee: BSA Member £15 / Non Member £25

Registration open for confirmed presenters and general audience participants here:
<http://portal.britsoc.co.uk/public/event/eventBooking.aspx?id=EVT10308>

Further information on the BSA Youth Study Group
<http://www.britsoc.co.uk/study-groups/youth.aspx>

Academic enquiries to: Steve Roberts E: S.D.Roberts@kent.ac.uk
Administrative enquiries to: BSA Events Team E: events@britsoc.org.uk