

Politics and Generosity: History and the Work of David Vilaseca

Dr Carrie Hamilton

Reader in History, University of Roehampton

The lecture will engage with the academic work of David Vilaseca (1964-2010) which offers a series of radical interventions in Hispanic studies, queer theory and critical theory through close readings of twentieth-century autobiography, as well as fiction and films in Spanish and Catalan. The analyses will explore aspects of Vilaseca's important intellectual legacy within and beyond his own writing.

David Vilaseca Memorial Lecture

Main Lecture
Theatre

6.15pm
29 October 2013

All welcome, admission free
The lecture will be followed by a reception
For more information:
events@royalholloway.ac.uk

ROYAL HOLLOWAY
UNIVERSITY OF LONDON