

TFTV: Exploring Conceptual and Creative Practices in Theatre, Film and Television

5th Annual Postgraduate Symposium

Monday 2nd June 2014

Keynote Speakers:

Dr. Ian W. MacDonald
University of Leeds, Aalto University

Lisa Holdsworth
TV and Theatre writer

Call for Papers:

The Department of Theatre, Film and Television is currently inviting applications for papers to be given at the above symposium.

This event seeks to encourage a wide array of research interests in the theory and practice of theatre, film and television. We are interested in receiving submissions from postgraduate students researching any and all aspects of the three disciplines and are open to presentations incorporating less traditional research methods, including demonstrations of practical and creative work. The research interests of our own students will form the core of the day's discussions, but we are happy to incorporate high quality work on any aspect of theatre, film and television.

Please send abstracts of 200-300 words to Romana Turina (rt748@york.ac.uk). Papers should be 15 minutes long in order to leave time for discussion. The deadline for entry is Friday 25th April and we aim to respond to all submissions by 30th April 2014.
