

The Leverhulme Trust

UCL Urban Laboratory presents:
Hide and Seek - The Dubious
Nature of High Security
Spaces

A talk by Max Colson, Leverhulme artist in residence @ UCL Urban Laboratory,
UCL Pearson Building, Room G07

Tuesday December 9th, 5pm

A talk and discussion exploring the work of the photojournalist Adam Walker-Smith and his attempts to document what he sees as the dubious, hidden nature of security design currently being deployed in public spaces throughout the UK. It is aimed at anyone interested in the design and representation of the modern urban environment and what can lie beneath the surface in cities today.