

2015 Consortium on Graduate Communication Colloquium

University of Toronto March 25, 2015, 1:30-7:00pm

Register at <http://gradconsortium.wordpress.com/colloquium2015/>

CAD$50 / approximately US$44 or €35
50% discount for full-time graduate students and part-time instructors

The CGC invites colleagues who provide professional development in academic writing and speaking to graduate students to meet in Toronto for the CGC's inaugural colloquium. Since its creation in April, 2014, CGC has attracted over 260 members from over 25 countries who share a common interest in graduate communication. This inaugural colloquium is the first mini-conference to address issues solely related to creating, teaching and administering graduate writing and speaking courses and programs.

In the inspiring surroundings of the University of Toronto's Hart House, colleagues will learn about successful programs, share experiences and approaches, discuss current research, and forge new collaborations that will strengthen graduate communication support across their campuses and beyond. The defining feature of the CGC Colloquium will be to build a community of graduate communication educators.

Keynote Speakers: John Swales & Christine Feak, University of Michigan

Co-Chairs: Nigel A. Caplan, University of Delaware & Michelle Cox, Cornell University

Local Host: Jane Freeman, Director, Office of English Language Writing and Support, School of Graduate Studies, University of Toronto

Sponsors: Office of English Language Writing & Support, School of Graduate Studies, U of T
English Language Institute, University of Delaware
University of Michigan Press

*CGC is an independent professional community.
Join now at <http://gradconsortium.wordpress.com>*