Chester Conference on the March of Wales

Friday, 10 April 2015, 7.30 pm: Public Lecture with wine reception from 9.00pm

Professor Howard Williams, University of Chester
Boundaries before the March, Boundaries on the March:
Monuments, Movement and Memory.

This public lecture will explore dimensions of the archaeology and history of the area that was to become the border between England and Wales between the fifth and eleventh centuries AD. The focus will be on the theme of monuments, memory and movement; considering how borders were created, sustained and transformed through monumental practices and memorial engagements in which controlling and defining the movement of people, animals and things were a key concern.

Saturday, 11 April 2015: Day conference
Dedicated to the memory of Dr John Doran

This major interdisciplinary conference, hosted by the Department of History and Archaeology, University of Chester, focuses on the northern borderlands of England and Wales from the earliest times to the later middle ages. This pioneering conference will lead to collaborative research.
