Often neglected is the role that Afrikan women have played in the struggle to effect and secure reparations. Appropriately, the occasion of the 114th anniversary of the 28th March 1900 - War of the Golden Stool, also known as the Nana Yaa Asantewaa War of Independence, is a fitting occasion to explore the scholarly activist contributions of a diverse range of women, past and present, both on the continent and Diaspora of Afrika.
