

Call for contributors from the Arts

Narratives of Loneliness: multidisciplinary perspectives from the 21st century

Edited by Olivia Sagan and Eric Miller

This is a call for original written contributions of no more than 5000 words from artists (any discipline) with an interest in the subject of 21st Century Loneliness for an anthology to be published by Routledge in 2017.

The book is multidisciplinary and seeks to capture a broad range of narratives, critiques, observations and de/constructions of loneliness which identify, in some way the 'lonelinesses' particular to our current century.

The anthology is mainly academic and therefore contributions should be based on, or refer to, research and/or practice and be theoretically grounded; but creative writing and scholarly autobiographic accounts are also encouraged.

Abstracts of no more than 150 words should be sent to the lead editor, Olivia Sagan by November 30th 2015 at olivia.sagan@bishopg.ac.uk