

Food behaviors in young children: new perspectives

Lyon, February 11th 2016

Call for abstracts

The symposium will discuss theoretical and empirical issues related to children's food behaviors. The conference will take place at the Research Center of the Institut Paul Bocuse (Ecully, France).

We welcome proposals for posters from all disciplines dealing with children food behaviors (empirical disciplines, social sciences, and humanities).

Submissions of the abstracts should clearly indicate the category of the submission and should adopt the following structure:

* State of the Art

Describe existing work in the area, work focusing on the same/similar problems or that might be useful to realizing your PhD.

* Problem Statement and Contributions

Based on motivation and state of the art, formulate the problem you intend to solve. This section should include a clear formulation of one (or very few) research hypothesis.

* Research Methodology and Approach

Describe the research methodology you will apply in your research, including the different steps from the formulation of your research questions to answering them.

* Preliminary or Intermediate Results

You should report here about the results achieved up to now in applying your approach that might not yet be sufficient for a full evaluation.

* Conclusions

Describe how your results will or might impact research or the world at large.

IMPORTANT DATES

Submission deadline: 15/01/2016

Notification of acceptance: 19/01/2016

To submit a poster proposal, send us your name, the title of the poster, and an abstract (~200 words). Please send all proposals to: jeremie.lafraire@institutpaulbocuse.com

Registration before January 19th (limited number of participants)

<http://recherche.institutpaulbocuse.com/en/events/>

Queries at: jeremie.lafraire@institutpaulbocuse.com

Fees (covers registration, breaks and lunch): industry: 200 € - academics: 100 €

Students: 20 €