

BSA Youth Study Group Research Development Workshop for Research Students and Early Career Researchers

10.00 – 16.30, Thursday 28 April 2016
Manchester Metropolitan University

In collaboration with the Manchester Centre for Youth Studies, MMU.

The BSA Youth Study Group and MCYS invite research students and early career researchers working on or with an interest any aspect of youth research to attend a research development workshop.

The purpose of the day is to provide a platform for researchers to present their work in a supportive, constructive and intellectually stimulating environment. Researchers with work at any stage of the research process are welcome to present their ideas, findings or concerns of navigating the field. Whether planning to present at a conference, refining ideas and questions through the literature review, or preparing to seek out avenues to disseminate your work in journals in the field, the day will provide a safe space for participants to receive feedback and help them develop their research in a range of different ways. The process will be supported by advice and guidance offered by established scholars in the fields of Sociology of Youth and Youth Studies, including Professor Steve Miles.

The day will also provide a useful networking opportunity to meet other people researching in similar fields. With this in mind, delegates not wishing to present but who would like to take part in an observational capacity or share and discuss their ideas more informally are very much encouraged to attend. Places are limited, but every effort will be made to include as many presenters as we can.
