The International Association for the study of Religion and Gender aims to connect, bring together, and support scholars working in the field of religion, gender and diversity, which includes the intersection with feminist, queer, sexuality, masculinity, postcolonial and post-secular studies. The IARG aims to foster the development of this interdisciplinary field of study. It operates as a network and a platform of exchange and collaboration in research, and organizes support, training and coaching in particular for young scholars in this field.

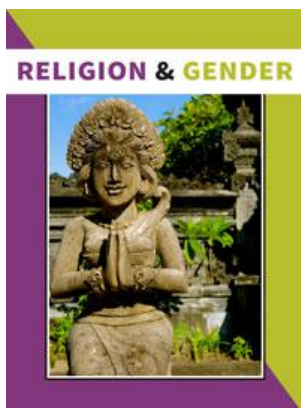

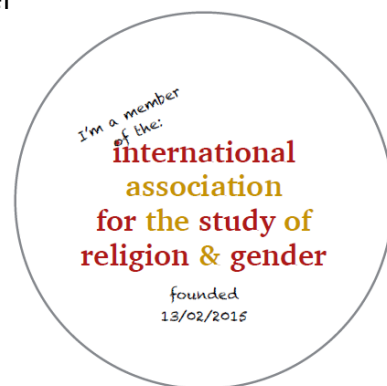

As an IARG member, you can...

- Collaborate with fellow members and expand your network
- Receive regular updates about IARG activities, events, calls for papers, vacancies etc.
- Promote your own research, activities and publications via the mailing list and various online platforms
- Join IARG conferences with a reduced registration fee
- Participate in IARG summer schools
- Support the open access journal Religion & Gender

Yearly membership rates start at €25,00
