We are pleased to invite you to the 15th Dangerous Consumptions Colloquium to be held on December 4th & 5th at the Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.

The Dangerous Consumptions Colloquium draws on social, cultural and critical theory to discuss research on any forms of 'dangerous', 'risky' and contested consumption. We encourage presentations from critical, social and cultural studies perspectives exploring topics as diverse as: alcohol, tobacco, pharmaceuticals, coffee, sugar, illicit drugs, gambling, sexuality, reproduction, the Internet, social media, media forms/popular culture, pornography, fossil fuels, food and animals. Take this opportunity to discuss adventurous ideas and theories related to your work with a friendly audience.

The Colloquium runs over two days with a single stream of papers (no concurrent sessions). This gives participants the opportunity to share ideas and understandings from different perspectives and enter into collaborative discussions about dangerous consumptions and the conceptual approaches used to make sense of them.

Please submit abstracts of no more than 300 words to Dr Baptiste Brossard [baptiste.brossard@anu.edu.au] by Friday 29th September

Each paper will have a 20 minute slot and presenters can choose how to use this time. For example, presenters can have a 15 minute paper with 5 minutes for questions or a 10 minute paper with 10 minutes for questions. There will be an additional 10 minute question time at the end of each session.

For more information, and to register for this event, please visit the ANU School of Sociology events page via: <https://goo.gl/5fFouK>

Registration costs AUD$150, with a limited number of free places for postgraduate presenters [please contact Dr Brossard (above) to express interest in a sponsored registration].

We encourage academics, researchers and students to circulate details of this event within their own relevant networks. We look forward to seeing you at this year's colloquium!

All the best,

Cathy Banwell, Baptiste Brossard, Helen Keane and Anna Olsen, colloquium convenors.
