

Volunteers needed!

Do you have half an hour to spare in the name of science?

I am seeking willing volunteers to take part in a research study that examines the development of visual information processing across the course of our lifespan.

All I need is 30 minutes of your time, and for you to complete 3 short questionnaires and 3 short tasks. The data I collect from this study will provide valuable information about how human brain processing develops. And will help me achieve my masters degree!

Are you 18-25, 38-45 or 68-75 years of age?

English as your first language?

If so and you are willing to participate, please contact me on the following:

Email: michellestock@live.co.uk

Mobile: 077 1188 6686

Thank you!

Michelle Newman (University of Westminster)

