The event is 10.00 to 5 pm.

Morning: demonstrations of three new methods mixtures.

- 1) To study "keyness" is our first mixture. Keyness measures how 'key' a word is in a particular text. We use a count-and-match statistical method for a small corpus of data, then use discourse analysis.
- 2) Our second method is a statistical F test of a Boolean truth table with fuzzy sets.
- 3) Thirdly we explore how measurement error can bias and ruin a regression result. This leads us to promote the validation of measurement through in-depth methods. Your strengths as a qualitative researcher are enhanced when you are able to critically assess the weaknesses of each regression used.

The afternoon: Three seminar speakers applying mixed methods to international comparative data.

1st paper: Dr. Punita Chowbey, Sheffield Hallam University,

Women's narratives of economic abuse and financial strategies in Britain and South Asia

2nd paper: A team prepared the paper on The Dual Burden, Marital Negotiations, and Tensions: Comparing Rural India & Bangladesh (with Mixed Methods) Wendy Olsen, Sahida Khondaker, Simeen Mahmud, Anup Mishra, Sohela Nazneen, Daniel Neff, Santosh K Singh, Maheen Sultan, and Samantha Watson

3rd Paper:

Wage Differentials in the Indian Labour Market: Do Identities Matter?

Amaresh Dubey and Surbhi Malhotra (presented by Surbhi Malhotra, a phd student from the Jawaharlal Nehru University, Delhi)

"The worst form of inequality is to try to make unequal things equal."

Aristotle

4th PAPER in POSTER FORMAT:

Gender Norms, Unpaid Women Work and Informality in Rural India: Quantifying the Time Used for Work by Rural Women

By Amaresh Dubey,

Professor, Centre for the Study of Regional Development, JNU, New Delhi, Anup K Mishra, Wendy Olsen, and Santosh K Singh
