

FOURTH ANNUAL SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES DAY

The fourth Annual Schools and Universities Day will take place on Friday 5th January 2018, at UCL Institute of Education. This is a free event hosted by the UCL IOE CI, and is a unique opportunity for teachers and secondary school students* of Chinese to meet with Chinese departments from universities across the UK.

Attending universities for 2018:

Durham University

Exeter University

Goldsmiths

Hull University

Lancaster University

Leeds University

LSE

Middlesex University

Open University

Oxford University

SOAS

Swansea University

University of Cambridge

University of Central Lancashire

University of Edinburgh

University of Kent

University of Newcastle

University of Nottingham

University of Portsmouth

University of Sheffield

University of Wales Trinity Saint David

Sussex University

University of Westminster

Warwick University

Feedback from students who attended previous Schools and Universities Days:

The university fair gave us the opportunity to ask any personal questions, and all their answers were useful. I liked how they weren't trying to persuade us to go to their university and gave alternative routes and suggestions.

I really enjoyed the university fair event, I really believe it changed my outlook on studying Chinese and my future as a whole. The people were really helpful.

The university fair was very useful because it gave me a good idea of the different types of course that different universities had to offer and so has helped my decision in which university/course to do.

I got to see in what ways you can continue Mandarin after school and see the different opportunities universities were giving along with Mandarin.

This event is suitable for years 11-13