

RASE 11 (2), May 31, 2018.

The RASE (Revista Española de Sociología de la Educación) is a peer-reviewed quarterly journal (January, May, September), that aims to disseminate research focused on Sociology of Education. The Special Issue in May's theme is "Biographicity and Education". It is coordinated by M^a Eugenia Cardenal de la Nuez and Francesc J. Hernández. The concept of "biographicity", developed by Peter Alheit, stresses the idea that contemporary individuals are pushed to be reflexive and take the lead to shape their own lives. The Issue aims to gather contributions that explore the problem, addressing questions like the nature and sense of education and training decisions in the present context, the relationship between educational trajectories and the social milieu, or the educational biographies of disempowered groups; and the theoretical and methodological challenges associated. The Issue will publish essays written in English or Spanish. Possible authors are kindly requested to write to María Eugenia Cardenal (mariaeugenia.cardenal@ulpgc.es) or to Francesc J. Hernández (Francesc.J.Hernandez@uv.es) for further information.
