

Research and Clinical Practice: A two way street

PRS Annual Conference at Northumbria University, 19 April 2018
(37th Scientific Meeting of the Physiotherapy Research Society)

While it is important for the research findings to be utilised in everyday practice, it is equally important to consider how researchers partner with clinical physiotherapists and co-develop research which can be translated into practice. This conference aims to capture the importance of strong links between research and clinical practice, with each informing the other and to bridge the 'researcher-practitioner gap'.

Key Note Lectures:

Professor Nadine Foster

Director of Keele CTU, NIHR
Research Professor of MSK
Health

Keele University

"Research and Clinical Practice: 2 way street and 2 way career"

Professor Nicola Adams

Professor of Rehabilitation

Northumbria University

"The future of research informed practice: lessons from a journey
through past and present"

Professor Lynn Rochester

Professor of Human Movement
Science

Newcastle University

"The inter-play between walking and cognition: insights and implications"