IN PROGRESS

fair access, representation and inclusion in museums

Disrupting the Sector Research Launch

Developing an equalities-led blueprint for change in the Scottish Museum Sector

Monday 18th June 2018 10:00 – 4:30pm

Glasgow Women's Library, 23 Landressy Street, Bridgeton G40 1BP

This work is timely and important. Evidence suggests that approaches to embedding authentic inclusion, representation and access for marginalised identity-groups in mainstream museum governance, leadership, recruitment, programming, communications, audiences and visitors, and collections and interpretation are stuck. Inaction is no longer an option, and we invite museum practitioners at all levels and at all stages on the equality in progress journey to join us.

Content for the day will cover:

- Feminist Museums: A framework for good practice
- Experts in exclusion: Revealing the barriers and solutions to audience inclusion from GWL's Museum Equality Critics
- Intersectional identities in the 'academy': Experiences of museum workers with protected characteristics
- How are Scottish museums are approaching equality?
- Developing an equalities-led blueprint for change

This event is free and ticketed with lunch provided
