

Introduction to Qualitative Research Methods 2018 Summer School

23rd-26th July 2018, Institute of Psychiatry, Psychology
& Neuroscience

KING'S
College
LONDON

Course Overview

This four day course provides an introduction to qualitative research methods, theory and practice.

The course aims to develop students' understanding of the principles & practice of using qualitative methods in health research. It will equip students with the skills to design and conduct rigorous qualitative research.

Fees

Full Course Fee	£900
KCL/LSHTM Students	£450
KCL & NHS Staff/Students	£675
Charities/NGOs/Service Users	£675
Low income country nationals	£225
Middle income country nationals	£450

The Health Services & Population Research Department presents this Summer School in partnership with the Collaboration for Leadership in Applied Health Research and Care (CLAHRC) South London and the Social Care Workforce Research Unit at King's

“Highly informative and beneficial. Comprehensive introduction to the core of qualitative research. Enjoyed the structure of course”

“The organisers seemed to really care about our experience and were open, available and keen to help. Really appreciated the range of different lecturers too – impressive”

Register now at kcl.ac.uk/hspr/summerschool

