Cultural Heritage, a Tool in Conflict and a Victim of War

3 - 4 May 2018

Sapienza Università di Roma and The Norwegian Institute in Rome

The workshop will explore the politics, ethics, policies and critical assessments of practices concerned with the destruction of cultural heritage, and particularly archaeological heritage, in contemporary conflicts, the use of cultural heritage in recent conflicts as a resource of domination and resistance, and the associated looting, trade and collecting.

The first day will be focusing on looting, export, smuggling and trade of objects from conflict area to markets and collectors (Thursday 3rd May at The Norwegian Institute in Viale Trenta Aprile 33)

The second day will discuss the use and destruction of archaeological heritage in conflict (Friday 4th May at the Odeion, La Sapienza, Piazzale Aldo Moro 5)
