

Workshop on Informalisation of Care for Older Adults 27th and 28th of November 2018 in Seinäjoki University of Applied Sciences (SeAMK), Finland

School of Health Care and Social Work, Kalevankatu 35, Seinäjoki, Auditorium C0062. Free of charge!

In all Nordic countries, growing numbers of increasingly old and frail individuals are living at home. This calls for new approaches in care policies and practices. Informal carers are the main providers of care for older adults and services tend to be scant. At the same time, services are marketised and digitalised. This workshop tackles the issues of informal care with high quality presentations of researchers and practice-oriented actors. There is also space for four PhD students to present their research and receive comments. PhD paper presenters are eligible for free accommodation and small travel grants for participation. The event is organized in cooperation with University of Southern Denmark and Stockholm University.
