

UNIVERSITY
of York

EASIP
East Asian Social Policy

'The future of social policy research in East Asia and UK'

Workshop organised by the Department of Social Policy & Social Work,

Centre for Research in Comparative and Global Social Policy,

Social Policy East Asia eXchange

July 10th, 2018

Venue: Research Centre for Social Sciences (Training Suite), ground floor.

12.00: Registration and welcome lunch

12.45: Welcome remarks, John Hudson (University of York)

13.00 - 14.30: Roundtable: Reflections on the origins and future of social policy research in EA and the UK – what have we achieved and what next?

Co-facilitators: John Hudson and Antonios Roumpakis

Participants: Gyu-Jin Hwang (University of Sydney), Ngok King Lun (Sun Yat-Sen University), Ruby Chau (University of Sheffield).

14.30 - 14.50: Coffee Break

14.50 - 16.20: Presentation: Bridging cross-cultural boundaries: the challenges of bridging 'East' and 'West', Sabrina Chai (University of York) and Stefan Kühner (Lingnan University):

Feed into small group discussions on:

- Research networks and reflections on the changes in academy 'East' and 'West'
- Research challenges on East Asia social policy in the UK
- Experiences in conducting research on East Asia social policy in the UK
- Research synergies: the future of comparative social policy analysis
- The challenges of working on multiple languages and cultures

16.00 – 16.20: Coffee

16.20 – 16.40: Feedback from the small group discussions

16.40 – 17.00: Concluding remarks, Neil Lunt (University of York)

For any questions please contact: Antonios Roumpakis (antonios.roumpakis@york.ac.uk)